SOMEBODY GONE DAFT.

The following editorial in yesterday's Enterprise is the most insane argument we ever saw in print. It says:

When the interest and disposition of the managers of the Third party of Nevada are regarded little doubt can be entertained as to their intention to repeal the Australian ballot law. The freedom of ballot is a menace to their supremacy, and a law that deters vote-buying and imposes coercion on employees is so distasteful to them that every effort will be made should they elect a Stewart Legislature to repeal it at once. We do not believe they can hold the Storey county candidates as well as they can those in some of the other counties; but they have had some time in which to publish a pledge against a repeal of the law, and none has been forthcoming. They have been publicly charged with the intention, and have not yet had a paper in the State make even an informal denial. Should Stewart's legislative ticket win the law providing for free and honest elections will be repealed unless the people exact an unqualified pledge in advance.

The bridge over which the People's party will march to victory will be the Australian ballot.

Now then listen to the Enterprise. It says if Stewart's legislative ticket wins they will repeal the law which enabled them to win.

Does the Enterprise seriously believe that any political party is going to repeal a law which enabled the party to march into power. Hardly. If the editor of the Enterprise will read that editorial over twice we will bet him $100 that he will admit he was in a trance when he wrote the article or else go over and lick the inexperienced subordinate who did write it.

Silver in Eastern Nevada.

"So far as politics are concerned," says Mr. Kirman, who has just returned from Eastern Nevada, "things are booming in that section, but Democrats and Republicans are unknown. The people are all advocates of the Silver party, and the vote from the Great East when counted next November will show that the people of the Eastern part of the State hold the paramount interest of Nevada above fealty to party. The returns will prove a surprise to the gold bugs of the West."

The painful rumor is afloat that Enoch Strother who went East after the Republican sack is returning empty handed as the Central Committee have decided that Nevada is lost to them and they can open a barrel more profitably elsewhere.

The Silver State has turned volume 41. It is a paper the people of Humboldt ought to be proud of. Its voice rings out every morning for silver and it is still marching in the middle of the road.

Silver men were a good deal more numerous yesterday on the street than before the Stewart meeting. It's no longer a disgrace to be a silver man in Ormsby county.

The silver train has started in this county and all wishing to get aboard haven't much time to spare.
